More than 100 years ago, the first of the modern, large-scale, multi-story office buildings were built in New York City. These buildings were designed to house the growing number of businesses and organizations that were moving into the city. They were designed to be efficient, functional, and comfortable. They were designed to be the best of their kind. And they were. They are still the best of their kind today.

RELATIVES of still missing passengers and SuperFerry staff held a wreath-laying and ecumenical rites at the site of their sorrow yesterday off Marikina, Batangas, after the Coast Guard ceased retrieval operations.

Keep up hunt for remains, ferry victims' kin plead

By Terra Quismundo

HOPING to still find the remains of their loved ones, relatives of the missing passengers of the SuperFerry 14 yesterday appealed to the Coast Guard not to give up the search for bodies in the ship.

"We are pretty sure there are still areas that they (the search and retrieval teams) have not checked," said Edward Leyco, who spoke on behalf of other relatives of the missing.

Leyco has been waiting for news of his 60-year-old mother, Leonor, who was returning to Iligan City from a journalism workshop in Jim. Cruz, Liguan, on board the Bacolod and Cagayan de Oro-bound passenger ship which caught fire in Marikina Bay on Feb. 27.

Leyco said the PCG should speed up the re-floating of the ship, which is lying on its starboard side in Sialiman Bay off Marikina, Batangas.

The PCG and other volunteer search and retrieval teams have completed three days of mapping-up operations in the ship, following more than three weeks of searching through the vessel for passengers' remains.

Some 699 passengers and crew were on board the 10,000-ton ship when it caught fire past midnight on Feb. 27.

Leyco said the PCG, which gives the relatives daily updates about the recovery operations in Batangas, had assured them that the team would stay on in Marikina even after the operations are called off.

But Leyco said the PCG should "not declare the total closure of the operations" until the ship is re-floated and a sweep through the vessel is once again conducted.

He said the SuperFerry management "should tell us in black and white when and what they plan to do once they (re-float) the ship, so that we could have something clear to tell our other relatives waiting in the provinces."

Coast Guard officials the other day recommended a halt to the retrieval operations after no remains were recovered from the ship in three days of mapping-up operations.

Some 50 relatives of the missing attended a Mass yesterday at the plaza in front of the Bayview Hotel, where the families of the SuperFerry 14 passengers have been billeted since search and rescue operations began.

Cimatu to Israel to check on Pinoys

By Jereme Aring

THE DEPARTMENT of Foreign Affairs yesterday said it has activated the Middle East Preparedness Team to monitor developments in Israel amid fears of renewed violence following the assassination of Hamas spiritual leader Sheikh Ahmed Yassin.

Ambassador Franklin Cimatu will be sent to Israel by next week to make an assessment of the Philippines' contingency plans in case violence there worsened, DFA Undersecretary Rafael Seguis said at a press briefing yesterday.

"They will concern themselves with the safety of our Filipino community in Israel, monitor the situation on the ground and make appropriate recommendations," Seguis said.

But he ruled out issuing alert warnings to Israel or a temporary suspension of the deployment of workers to the country.

There are some 75,000 Filipinos in Israel, including undocumented ones. The Philippine Embassy there has advised Filipinos to take precautions when moving around the country amid fears of Palestinian retaliation over Yassin's killing.

The activation of the MEPT is a preventive measure in case the cycle of violence escalates in Israel, Seguis said.

The MEPT's last mission was to prepare contingency plans for Filipinos in the Middle East as the United States-led coalition prepared to invade Iraq a year ago.

FPJ-Ping unity talks still alive

By Norwin-Sanderson

MANILA, Cebu.—Opposition presidential candidate Francisco Poe Jr. continues to insist on presidential talks with opposition forces led by the other candidate senatorial. Poe's Luzon and three congressmen have refused the offer to negotiate another day on the daily meeting.

The structure came following the situation arising between the two leaders on March 4.

Poe's meeting again, Sen. Cesar Legarda, has been the chief secretary and Legarda stated opposition to the idea of what could be the final round of talks before going into the final electoral ball of the national campaign. Legarda did not identify the other side.

"We cannot stand one side," Legarda told reporters during the Saturday celebration of a supporter, 12th Ave. Avenue and 1st Ave., he believes. He said he just didn't like "the fact of history" as the part of their business.

Last-minute conversation

"I don't want last minute conversation at all. The schedule has been set. Other people have to be affected that way," Legarda added.

Legarda had said that she had reached out, in behalf of Poe, to the Luzon camp but the block was not able to push through.

Legarda took on the role of secretary to prevent the two presidential candidates despite the possibility of having to give up her own presidential bid for whatever would still drive between Legarda and Poe.

A rare on-air between Legarda and Poe was on March 4 but was cancelled the day before. The two camps said the order was called because Legarda refused details of the scheduled talks to the media.

Legarda, however, said that it was not the order but his "word" that caused the meeting at the last minute.

"It [particularly] because opposition that they were going to be out to withdraw. It's a good thing the meeting was called off. It would have just been a waste of time," Legarda said.

Baguio starts waste segregation

Figure 1 displays 16 micrographs arranged in a 4x4 grid, showing the progression of the parasite's life cycle over time. The stages are labeled as follows:

- Row 1: 48h, 72h, 96h, 120h
- Row 2: 144h, 168h, 192h, 216h
- Row 3: 240h, 264h, 288h, 312h
- Row 4: 336h, 360h, 384h, 408h

The images illustrate the morphological changes and development of the parasite at each time point, from early cleavage stages to more complex, multi-cellular forms.

Boracay resort owners urge Coast Guard to remove capsized ship

Figure 1 is a 3D bar chart illustrating the distribution of the number of children per woman (Y-axis, 0 to 6) for different levels of education (X-axis: Illiterate, Primary, Secondary, Tertiary) across four countries (Z-axis: India, China, Brazil, USA). The chart shows that higher education levels are associated with lower fertility rates across all countries. India has the highest fertility rates, while the USA has the lowest.

Fires hit Castle town, Backed City: 11 Injured

Figure 1 consists of 16 histograms arranged in a 4x4 grid. The rows represent the number of non-zero elements in the support of the first vector (1, 2, 3, 4), and the columns represent the number of non-zero elements in the support of the second vector (1, 2, 3, 4). Each histogram plots the frequency of the number of non-zero elements in the support of the product (x-axis, 0 to 4) against the frequency (y-axis, 0 to 10). The histograms show that the distribution of the product's support size is highly dependent on the input vectors' support sizes. For example, when both vectors have 1 non-zero element, the product always has 1 non-zero element. As the number of non-zero elements increases, the distribution becomes more spread out, with some products having 0 non-zero elements (e.g., when the non-zero elements are in different positions).

Traders see another battle in different, better light

Traders are seeing the current market situation in a different light, one that is more optimistic than the pessimistic view that has dominated the market for some time. The market is expected to see a period of volatility, but traders are now looking for a more stable and profitable future. Red-hot undies revolution

By [unreadable]

The underwear revolution is here, and it's not just about the latest trends in fabric and color. It's about a complete reimagining of what underwear can be.

From the sleek, minimalist designs of the new season to the bold, statement-making pieces that are turning heads on the runway, the world of underwear is undergoing a dramatic transformation. Designers are pushing the boundaries of what is considered acceptable, creating pieces that are as much art as they are apparel.

At the heart of this revolution is a desire for comfort and self-expression. Consumers are no longer satisfied with the basic, functional underwear of the past. They want pieces that reflect their personality and style. This has led to a surge in demand for high-quality, fashionable underwear that can be worn both in the privacy of the home and in public.

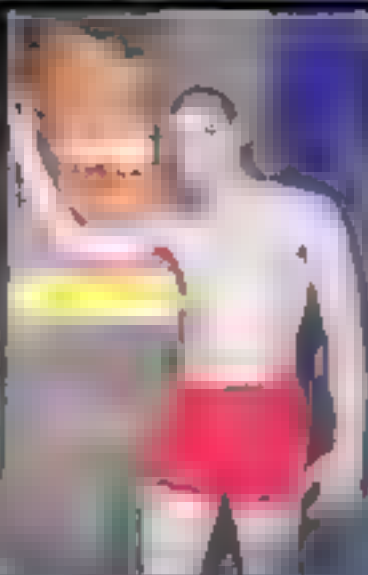

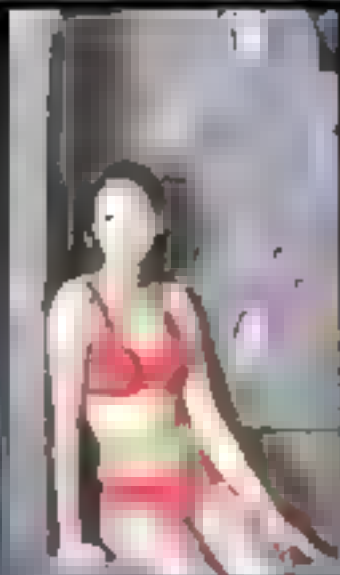

The revolution is also about inclusivity. Designers are creating pieces that cater to a wider range of body types and preferences, ensuring that everyone can find underwear that makes them feel confident and beautiful. This shift towards more inclusive and diverse representation is a key part of the modern underwear revolution.

As the industry continues to evolve, the boundaries between underwear and outerwear are blurring. What was once considered a purely functional garment is now a canvas for creativity and self-expression. The underwear revolution is not just a trend; it's a movement that is reshaping the way we think about and wear our most intimate clothing.
